from our Senior Rabbi David H. Lincoln

In many ways it is easy for me to be so high-minded living in a large metropolis for I have a wide choice of good mechanics. However good this particular one may be—I could go elsewhere.

Jewish law and tradition teaches that one should keep far from an evil person. Certainly, one can try to persuade such people of the errors of their ways. This, however, goes just so far. If after repeated attempts to reason with the other party, he fails to respond, then the

Some years ago I was asked by "The Ethicist" in the New York Times Magazine section to write an answer to the problem of a car mechanic who made disparaging remarks about minorities, gays, etc. Should one continue to patronize his machine shop? My answer was as follows:

I suspect that even those of us who claim to have a strong sense of justice are sometimes hesitant to act to our own detriment.

My son-in-law, who is a native Spanish speaker, recently had the good fortune to find a taxi during a New York City rainstorm. The cab driver, not thinking that he might be Jewish, proceeded to make various slurs against the Jews in the city. My son-in-law kept quiet. The driving was bad enough already and he did not wish to further endanger his life. As far as the tip was concerned?...

Reflecting our particular dilemma I ask myself what would I do if my barber made anti-Semitic remarks. This, in fact, is unlikely since he is Israeli! I, naturally, would not return to his shop. Shouldn't I feel almost equally upset when other groups are maligned? Furthermore, if I still maintain a relationship with such a hateful person, surely, I would be condoning his behavior.

I should expect decency and ethical behavior from everyone with whom I do business advice I would give would be to look for another mechanic. Surely I should expect decency and ethical behavior from everyone with whom I do business, regardless of their job or profession.

Stained Glass Windows

The glow of the new stained glass windows in the Sanctuary enlightened our High Holy Day worship. These beautiful windows also offer the opportunity for memorial dedications: a meaningful way to show respect for the departed.

from our Chairman Amy A.B. Bressman

By the first week of November, our application seeking a Senior Rabbi for Park Avenue Synagogue will be filed with the Rabbinical Assembly. It will be accessible to all Conservative Rabbis throughout the world. This will formally initiate the twenty-one month process of finding a new Senior Rabbi for our synagogue.

To prepare the application and have it reflective of the views of the congre-

Members of the Board, the Advisory Council and the Arms Presidents were asked what they see as the strengths and weaknesses of Park Avenue Synagogue and to outline the greatest challenges we face over the next five years.

The responses from these sessions guided the Search Committee in completing the application and it is these responses that will form the rubric by which the candidates are evaluated.

It is my expectation that the Search Committee will see our first candidates during the winter of 2006-2007. With almost two years to find the right person for the job, the committee is positioned to serve the Synagogue well. They have the time to conscientiously and thoroughly search the world to find the right person for this important responsibility.

My gratitude goes to our Search Committee, chaired by Geoffrey Colvin, with members Joanne Davis, Roger Einiger, Rachael First, Steve Friedman and Brian Lustbader (with ex-officio members Menachem Rosensaft and myself) for the seriousness of purpose they have already shown for the task.

I will periodically use this column to update you on the process and at all times the committee welcomes your views.

The Search Committee... is positioned to serve the Synagogue well

gation, the Rabbinic Search Committee held a number of sessions in April and May and conducted a board level session in the Fall. In April and May, the entire congregation was invited to discuss those attributes that the Committee should prioritize in conducting the search. There were approximately 200 congregants who attended these sessions. Additionally, the questions discussed at these sessions were made available to the entire congregation. This elicited an additional 50-60 responses. These formal responses were augmented by a number of letters from congregants expressing their views.

In the fall, the Board meeting sessions focused on the institution.

Passionate Davening at P.A.S. Can Become Your Passion

Selma Weintraub

What's old is new and what's new is old. The introduction of the Passionate Davening service brought back to me many memories of my childhood days in the synagogue my parents belonged to in West New York, New Jersey. It always seemed to me that the young children were given high priority in the life of the synagogue—"daveners for the future"—where children's services were held every Shabbat. Music, singing and dancing were the order of the day. Of course, parents always brought their children and very often they stayed and took part in the children's service. Having my parents there and seeing them enjoying themselves must have strengthened my resolve to keep going to the Shabbat service, as I never remember not wanting to go.

Now that I am on in years, the Passionate Davening service at P.A.S. was a wonderful and uplifting experience for me and helped activate and energize my synagogue experience of long ago. I do hope to participate again and I hope many members will treat themselves to the "PD at P.A.S.," so they, too, can become full of spirit.

Todah Rabbah to Rabbi David Lincoln, Rabbi Kenneth Stern, Cantor David Lefkowitz and Cantor Nancy Abramson for being the catalysts in this new endeavor. And thanks to our own Men's Club, who have committed to this project with enthusiasm and financial support. The next "enhanced" Passionate Davening service will be on Friday, November 3 at 6:15 pm. Please join me in the davening.

Welcome Home College Students

Saturday, November 25 at 9:15 am

Park Avenue Synagogue will warmly welcome home our college students over Thanksgiving Weekend with a joyous Shabbat Service on Saturday, November 25, followed by a private luncheon for the students with the Rabbi. If you know of college students who will be home for the weekend, please RSVP to Rabbi Lincoln's secretary, Liya, at 212-369-2600.

Mitzvah Day

Endowed in loving memory of Vicki K. Wimpfheimer

Sunday, December 3, 2006

Accepting Donations: November 29 and 30, December 1

The Park Avenue Synagogue Mitzvah Day encourages all of us to help create a better world with a variety of activities (See back page for more information.) We will be collecting goods to donate to charitable organizations as well as organizing the Parents' Association Flea Market. Please bring in men's, women's, and children's clothing, coats, and accessories. The Flea Market welcomes toys, sporting goods, cell phones, eyeglasses, costume jewelry, tchotchkes, and housewares. Please only bring in items that are in good condition. The food drive is also seeking canned and dry food. Donations will be accepted all day on Wednesday, November 29th; Thursday, November 30th and Friday December 1st and on Mitzvah Day until 3:00 pm.

Please contact: Julie Ruvkun at 212-737-7911, jg2065@columbia.edu or Nancy Dolinsky at 212-988-2169, nancyd@nyc.rr.com.

Archives

The Synagogue has a vast and rich history that should be preserved. Toward that end, we have begun an Archives Project that involves the collection, organization and cataloguing of written materials, photographs and memorabilia of the Park Avenue Synagogue. We will use the Archives to enhance our 125th year celebration. We are creating a synagogue timeline and special exhibits using the memorabilia from our Archives. We would greatly appreciate the donation or loan of any documents, photographs or artifacts that you or your family might possess. Also, within the departments of the Synagogue, we plan to create a system for the collection of items for many years to come. The greater the participation of congregants, the greater the Archives will be!

An Inspiring Film about Jewish Athletes in the 1930s

Tuesday, November 28 at 12:30 pm

Free of Charge

Join Sisterhood for a light lunch and a showing of "Watermarks: The Jewish Swimming Champions who Defied Hitler." Rabbi Dawn Rose will introduce this award-winning film and lead a discussion of it afterwards. "Watermarks" tells the story of the legendary Hakoah sports club of Vienna and its highly successful female swimming team of the 1930s. This film follows the tale of these women as they escape from Austria after the Anschluss, make new lives for themselves in the United States, Britain, and Israel, and eventually hold a reunion in Vienna. Throughout the film, the women discuss their feelings about their experiences in Austria and their new countries. Don't miss this wonderful film! All members of P.A.S. are invited.

Jewish Theological Seminary

The Jewish Theological Seminary is an extraordinarily rich resource for all of us. Their theme for this year is compelling: "Think-Engage-Listen-Learn." A fascinating series of programs is planned for fall, dealing with medicine, ethics, and same-sex marriage.

You can get details and register at www.jtsa.edu, (go to Public Events), or call 212-280-6093.

In addition, the Library of The Jewish Theological Seminary's priceless and unique holdings is now available to each of us at home. You can access these materials whenever you wish by logging on the Library's new website www.jtslibrarytreasures.org.

Ellen Alt, our Artist-in-Residence, exhibited two artworks at the International Assemblage Artists Exhibition at Gallery 24, Berlin, Germany. The exhibition took place from September 28 to October 19. You can get a view of her work by going to her website: www.ellenalt.com.

Dorothy Denberg, long-time Park Avenue Synagogue member and former trustee, has been selected to win a WESTY award. At a ceremony in October, "West Side Spirit," a weekly newspaper, honored several distinguished people for notable civic service. As Dean of Barnard College, Dorothy Denberg relates to three constituencies: her students, her college, and the community. She has worked toward increasing the involvement of the college with the community, and has helped to bring local students to the prestigious women's college.

Dr. Richard S. Muchnick

has been awarded the John Milton McLean Medal for 2006 by Weill Medical College of Cornell University for "outstanding teaching and clinical contributions to ophthalmology." He is a highly respected ophthalmologist in private practice and a Clinical Associate Professor of Ophthalmology and Chief of Pediatric Ophthalmology and Strabismus at New York Weill Cornell Medical Center.

November B'Nai Mitzvah

Amanda Toporek November 11, 2006

Amanda Toporek attends The Spence School in Manhattan and has started seventh grade. Amanda has attended the Park Avenue Synagogue Hebrew School since kindergarten. She has always enjoyed the program and has made her commitment to religious study and Hebrew a priority with grace and pleasure.

In addition to her studies, Amanda volunteers at the 92nd Street Y where she helps children with after-school activities. As part of her Bat Mitzvah work with the UJA Mitzvah program, she has elected to allocate a significant portion of her Bat Mitzvah gifts to purchase and donate advanced hydraulic wheelchairs to children at the Blythedale Children's Hospital.

Amanda is a wonderful big sister to her younger siblings, Eden and Alex. She puts her big heart into everything she does so well.

We are all so proud of Amanda and the special woman she is becoming. We thank all the family, friends and teachers who have contributed to her development.

Harrison Klaperman November 18, 2006

Harrison, an eighth grader at Park East Day School with strong ties to Jewish studies and culture, personifies the term menschlichkeit: he is warm, empathic, polite, well spoken, and honest, the first to hold open a door or offer a seat. He loves sailing, water skiing, snow skiing, reading, computer programming and playing piano.

While Harrison excels in a broad range of subjects, math is his area of particular expertise. In 2005 and 2006, he won First Place in the respective Sixth and Seventh Grade New York Mathematics League Championships.

This past summer, Harrison divided his time between MathPath, a residential academic math camp for gifted students held at the University of California at Santa Cruz and OmniCamp, a co-ed sleep-away camp located in Poland, Maine. He is contemplating a career in molecular biology or finance.

May he continue to make us proud!

Thank you to the following high school and college students who read Torah on the second day of Rosh Hashanah:
Daniel Bernstein, Andrew Colvin, Daniel Friedman, Suzanne Gold, Alexandra Mitchell, Gabrielle Nagler, Josh Parker, Melissa Rutman, Stephen Rutman, Carolyn Ruvkun, Elana Seplow and Molly Silberberg.

Guest Speaker Rabbi Shlomo Riskin "The Power of Prayer and Practice"

Date and time TBD

Sponsored by the P.A.S. Israel Committee

Rabbi Dr. Shlomo Riskin is the Chief Rabbi, Efrat, Israel and Founder and Dean of Ohr Torah Stone Colleges and Graduate Programs. Born in Brooklyn and a graduate of Yeshiva University, he was ordained by Rabbi Joseph B. Soloveitchik. A respected teacher and writer, Rabbi Riskin was the founding rabbi of the Lincoln Square Synagogue in Manhattan which became the focal point for a return to Orthodoxy on the part of many young intellectuals and aspiring professionals, and its rabbi became a major spokesperson for Modern Orthodoxy by pioneering the first Advanced Talmud Study Program for women, as well as the first Synagogue service conducted for women by women, in 1971.

In 1983, at the peak of his professional career in America, Rabbi Riskin left New York with his family to become the rabbi of the City of Efrat, a burgeoning settlement in Gush Etzion seven miles south of Jerusalem, which since 1976 he, together with Moshe Moshkowitz, had been working on establishing. Efrat now numbers close to 8,000 residents, and is considered to be the central city of the Etzion Bloc. The decision was difficult; Rabbi Riskin loved his New York lifestyle and had professional gratification. However, he strongly believed that Israel was the place for Jews, and that especially in the post-Holocaust era, the Jewish future lay in Israel. In light of today's difficult circumstances, Rabbi Riskin's beliefs have only been reinforced.

Perpetual Jewish Film Festival

Thursday, November 30 at 7:00 pm

The Perpetual Jewish Film Festival offers free viewings of Jewish movies of note from around the world. This year the series will open on November 30 with the extraordinary, heart-rending "Left Luggage," staring Isabella Rossellini and Topol. This moving film is set in post-Holocaust Antwerp, where a man furtively digs holes in search of something he buried long ago, and a Hasidic mother (Rossellini) struggles to raise her specially-abled son in a world still hostile to Jews. Superb acting—not to be missed!

Mark your calendar for

December 14 "The Dibbuk"
(an uncanny Yiddish Classic!)

January 11 "Ship of Fools"
(a stunning indictment of pre-Holocaust society)

News from Our Schools

From Learning to Practice

Ron Koas, Education Director

This past summer I continued my participation in the JTS-HUC Leadership Institute for Congregational School Principals. Together with educators from throughout the metropolitan area, I studied, discussed, and analyzed, and as a result I gained a great deal. I plan on applying so much of what I learned at the Institute in the coming school year. In fact, I already have. And as I write this, school hasn't even started yet!

My two-day teacher orientation program was greatly influenced by my Leadership Institute experience. Each time a day of learning at the LI began with a niggun (melody without words), I was reminded of how much I love to sing. After the niggun everyone in the room seemed happier. I thought, "That's how I would like to start my Shabbat services or teacher orientation." And so I did. The niggun created a special mood in our faculty meeting. It helped everyone relax, connect with each other, and start the day with a spiritual feeling.

All of the participants in the Leadership Institute have come to feel like one big family. "That's how I want my school to be," I thought. "A big family, a place that both students and teachers will see as a second home." I learned at the LI that I can change the typical and overused ice-breaker activity of going around in a circle and having everyone introduce themselves with their name, congregation, and professional experience. Instead, I can encourage each person to share a little about him/herself on a personal level. People can share about a hobby, an interest, or anything they wish ("I am training for the marathon," "I have eight children," "I write poetry,") and the result is a warmer, more trusting atmosphere. I tried this at my orientation and it did, indeed, make a difference. A teacher may discover that he/she shares a hobby or interest with another teacher, for example, and friendships are formed. Sharing personal information also just "loosens up" everyone, reminding them that they are not just work colleagues, but real people with real lives outside of school.

One speaker at the summer institute was from "Baba Ganews" magazine. Although this wonderful publication was distributed to the students at our school, it was rarely discussed in class. After listening to the speaker, I realized that by merely sending home the magazine, we were not getting the most out of it pedagogically. I decided to invite this same speaker to address our faculty. She explained to my teachers how they can use "Baba Ganews" in the classroom as an educational tool.

I initiated a discussion with my faculty based on one I took part in during the summer seminar on challenges to liberal Jewish identity. I related to the teachers the story of a young man in college spending his first Shabbat there with another Jewish friend. He felt lost during hand washing, Kiddush, and birchat hamitzon. I posed questions to the teachers: what challenges does the young man face as he experiences this Shabbat evening experience? How might he then feel about his own authenticity as he goes through this experience? How should Hebrew School education have prepared him for this? And are we doing our job the best that we can? I was pleasantly surprised to see that almost everyone from our faculty of 30 teachers participated in the discussion. They gave me so much to think about on how to enhance our curriculum to better suit our students so that they will have stronger Hebrew skills, more Judaic knowledge, and heighten Jewish identity.

Inspired by a session we had this summer on staff development, I decided to work with my teachers on our second day of orientation on defining a vision. I shared my vision with my teachers and invited them to ask themselves the following questions: What difference am I trying to make personally? What is one new strategy I will implement this year? What is my vision as a teacher? How can I make a difference in the life of a child? What is one incident that best exemplifies my vision as a teacher? I can't tell you how active all the teachers were during this session.

During the Leadership Institute, all of the participants shared with each other much of their own experiences in Jewish education. We had an opportunity to learn from each other. This made me realize how we don't always take full advantage of the resources that are available to us. I decided to invite a representative from MATAN, the organization for Jewish special-needs children, to come address the teachers. Our school has special-needs classes with trained teachers, yet I felt the regular faculty should also learn more about children with special needs.

The Leadership Institute gave me the confidence to initiate new programs in my congregational school, as well. We are introducing a new bar/bat mitzvah program for Kitah Vav students, which will include a great deal of family involvement. I am also planning on making changes to make our Shabbat services more creative and participatory, so that the children will get the most out of them.

In short, my two-day teacher orientation was a wonderful experience, and I believe the teachers got a great deal out of it. I know deep in my heart that the workshops, discussions, and planning sessions would not have been so successful without my participation in the Leadership Institute Seminar.

Thanksgiving Blessings

Lisa Samick, Director of High School and Youth Programs

As we approach the annual Food Pantry Thanksgiving distribution (this year on Wednesday, November 22nd), I want to relate a story from last year's program.

Imagine if you can, hundreds of people gathered outside the gates of the synagogue. Some of them had been lined up since early that morning. Our High School students (about 25 of them) were ready—and they worked tirelessly for the next several hours, handing out turkeys, bags of food and smiles. They wished each and every client a good holiday—in English and in Spanish, and they made sure that all of their families had plenty to eat.

As the last client left, we looked in disbelief at the food still waiting in the hallway. They had handed out almost 500 turkeys and bags of food, but some people who had made reservations hadn't come for their packages. And these students, exhausted and spent, sprang back into action. We called every food pantry and hot meal program we could find and when finally, we were able to find an organization still open after 6:00 pm the day before Thanksgiving, our students stayed to load the van and make sure that all the food was handed out.

Many of us look forward to Thanksgiving as a great long weekend, a good opportunity to get out of town—to ski, to visit family, to travel and we know that we all have so much to be thankful for. But to be here for this truly amazing afternoon—to see the faces of our students—current and alum, as much as of our clients, is a Thanksgiving blessing like no other.

If you would like to volunteer to help with the distribution or the packing day, to help prepare the bags on Sunday, November 19th, please contact Lisa Samick at 212-369-2600 ext.141.

A Look Ahead

Mitzvah Day

Endowed by the children of Vicki K. Wimpfheimer

Sunday, December 3, 2006

Join the Park Avenue Synagogue community in celebrating Mitzvah Day. Bring your family and friends to perform good deeds to benefit those in need.

There will be something for everybody. As in the past we will be collecting goods to donate to charitable organizations as well as organizing the Parents' Association Flea Market. We will also sponsor our annual blood drive and of course, bake fresh cookies for donors. As always, there will lots of fun activities for all ages, 1 to 100: insightful discussions with our Clergy, off-site visits, arts and crafts, food collection, and numerous programs appearing for the first time. Please mark your calendars!

Contact Julie Ruvkun at 212-737-7911 or jg2065@columbia.edu; or Nancy Dolinsky at 212-988-2169 or nancyd@nyc.rr.com if you're interested in helping plan this year's event.

Save the date for

The Prayer and Practice Night of Shabbat Dinners

December 8
following 6:15 pm services

Our 2006 theme of Prayer and Practice will culminate with the extraordinary night of congregational Shabbat dinners in the homes of our members. After Shabbat services, host and guest families and singles will sit together to enjoy dinner, conversation, and community.

Watch for your mailbox for an invitation to this special event...and join us on December 9 for a special musical Havdalah followed by our Musicale.
